Matthew 25:31-46

We live busy lives. We live each day according to the purposes and needs of that day. We live in the moment concerned mostly for our own well-being, seldom stopping to meet the needs of others around us. Our neglect of those needs isn't necessarily done out of malicious intent or indifference. Sometimes they are simply unnoticed.

1. Jesus will come in _____
 - A. He will claim His _____
 - B. He will judge the _____
 - C. He will give His _____

2. Our time here _____
 - A. We need new _____ to see people
 - B. We need new _____ to love people
 - C. We need new _____ to serve people

The gospel of Jesus is sufficient to change us and prepare us for life in the kingdom. It extends to us forgiveness so that we will not face judgment for the bad things we do. However, the gospel process will lead us to care for the people that Jesus came to save. Jesus expects us to do something with the salvation He offers as we patiently await His return.
