

Revelation: The Promise of Glory
Worship as an Act of Defiance
Revelation 14:1-20

There is always someone or some system promising a better life now. Government assures us that we can trust it to make life better for us. The culture tells us that if we would just conform to the ever-changing moral norms of society and get along, then life would be better for us. Both are saying through their laws and through their advertisements, "All this could be yours if you bow before me."

1. Faithful followers of Jesus will _____ with Him.
2. There is no _____ in our object of worship.
3. The judgment of God is _____ and _____.

Revelation was given to the church to remind faithful followers of Jesus to patiently endure. We must endure the corruption of idolatrous political power. We must persevere and stand fast through the propaganda of a progressive culture. We trust that He finds us faithful in our pledged allegiance to Jesus, our King. All of the promises of the world are far surpassed by the promise of glory with our God.
