

Revelation: The Promise of Glory
All Things Made New
Revelation 21:1-27

When we are involved in a long and arduous task, it helps to imagine the end-product or outcome of our work. We look back at difficult times and are reminded that there were certain thoughts or images that kept us going, such as the finish line at the end of a marathon or your favorite dessert at a particular weight-loss goal. We have pictures and motivational sayings in our homes and offices that inspire us to reach our goals.

1. We live between two _____.
2. We live between two _____.
3. We live for one _____.

We are God's _____, saved by His grace,
Destined to live in God's _____, His kingdom,
For God's _____, His glory, forever.

The image found in Revelation 21 has been preserved to give us glimpses of the promise of the glory that is to come. It is intended to remind us of the reason for the cross. It is intended to motivate us to fulfill our calling. As we live in this temporary country, we are responsible in all that we do for the sake of the eternal country to come. We live in the ongoing power of the Holy Spirit for the purpose of glorifying God knowing that one day all things will be made new.
